MAY ASK JAPAN TO WITHDRAW ALL TROOPS

TOKIO, Jan. 17.—Government officials have not yet made public the text of the American note protesting against the shooting of Lieutenant Langdon by a Japanese sentry at Vladivostok. Publicists, however, express the belief that Washington not only asked reparations, with guarantees removing the probability of similar incidents in the future, but also has again pointed out to the Japanese the wisdom of reducing, if not withdrawing altogether, her troops from the country where she possesses sovereign rights, excepting Litzke, which is dominated by her military powers.

A correspondent of the Associated Press, who just returned to Tokio from a visit to Manila and of the larger cities of the far east, found some uneasiness everywhere regarding the relations between the Japanese and the United States. In well-informed circles these misgivings appeared to be based upon what is described as "Japan's resentment to any American policy calculated to curb Japanese expansion in Asia" than upon the California question. The latter problem, while touching Japan's prestige and the interests of Japanese in America, apparently is regarded with the same seriousness as the question of Japan's vital interests near Nippon. In diplomatic circles here the opinion prevails that the situation does not justify the pessimism noticeable outside the borders of the Japanese empire.
